Coaches

Ron Nischwitz, coach

Wright State athletic director Don Mohr made two bold moves in 1974. First, he stepped down as baseball coach to concentrate his efforts as athletic and intramural director. Second, he tapped former major leaguer Ron Nischwitz as his successor.

Nischwitz spent four seasons in major league baseball with Detroit, Cleveland, and the New York Mets from 1961-66. As a relief pitcher, his best year was in 1962 with Detroit when he posted a 3.90 earned run average. After arm problems forced his retirement as an active player, Ron spent one season as a pitching coach in the Mets farm system.

A native of Dayton and a graduate of Fairview High School, Nischwitz pitched for two years at Ohio State where he was 11-1 as a junior and earned all-American honors. Nischwitz earned a Bachelor of Electrical Engineering degree from OSU in 1961 and earned a Master of Business Administration from the University of Dayton in 1969. While in pro ball, he worked in computer design at NCR during the off-season for several years prior to joining ACB American. After three years with ACB, he purchased the professional collection agency which he still owns and manages in addition to his part-time coaching duties.

Since coming to Wright State, "Nisch" has guided the Raiders to postseason tournament action in each of the past four years, the longest stretch in the Great Lakes region. His 1975 squad was the surprise of the tourney, winning the first two games from Eastern Illinois and Evansville before finishing in third place. The best finish was in 1976 when WSU lost to Southern Illinois-Edwardsville in the championship game, 4-3, in 10 innings. The Cougars went on to place second in the Division II World Series. The highest ranking for his Raiders was in 1977 when Collegiate Baseball ranked WSU eighth early in the season.

Nischwitz strongly believes in playing against excellent competition. For example, the 1976 team met Division I opponents 25 times during a 46-game season. Among them were such powers as Pan American, Michigan State, Miami Toledo, Ohio State, and Indiana. The Raiders collected at least one victory over each team.

More Division I teams are on the schedule this season including a two-game series at Florida State on the southern trip. The Seminoles have been to the NCAA tournament 16 times, the fourth highest among Division I schools, and have been to the College World Series six times, placing second once.

Through his influence with professional baseball contacts, Nischwitz will have two of his former players in pro baseball spring training camps this year. Bob Grote, who earned all-District honors in 1976, is with the New York Mets this year and Nisch feels he could move up to AAA this season. Mark Lucas is in his second year in the Atlanta Braves organization after hitting over .300 in Class A ball last season. Other players who have been with pro ball clubs include Mark South (Montreal Expos) and Dave Newnam (New York Yankees).

Nischwitz has achieved this tremendous record against some of the best baseball schools in the Midwest without financial aid. This is the second year baseball can offer limited grant-in-aid money.

Ron and his wife, Sandy, have four children—Jeff, 19; Greg, 18; Brad, 14; and Lisa, 11.

Bo Bilinski, assistant coach

In his third year as a part-time assistant coach, Mark (Bo) Bilinski joined coach Nischwitz after graduating from Wright State as a three-year letter winner in baseball.

Bilinski's finest year was in 1974 as a senior, when he led the team in batting (.302) and set a school record of six home runs and 33 RBIs. He had a 1.46 earned run average in four pitching appearances. He still finds time to play summer baseball in the Dayton AA league.

After earning a Bachelor of Science degree, Bilinski joined the Dayton Police Department. He is now a detective after only four years on the force.

Al Burger, assistant coach

The newest member of the coaching staff is Al Burger, who spent three years in professional baseball. Burger graduated from Beavercreek High School in 1949 and went right into the Chicago Cub organization where he played third base and the outfield.

Burger first coached in the Dayton AA summer baseball league for two years and then three years in the high school summer league. He moved back to the AA league with the Beavercreek Merchants three years ago, leading the team to the Stan Musial National Tournament in 1976.

After five years out of the Dayton Amateur Baseball league, Burger was named to its Hall of Fame in 1975. His son, Rick, was a pitcher for Wright State.

1979 Outlook

Wright State will be after its fifth straight NCAA Division II tournament berth, the longest streak in the Great Lakes region. Last year the Raiders slipped to 17-16-2 along with a third-place finish in the NCAA regional, which was their poorest record since 1974. As usual, however, the Raiders faced a schedule loaded with Division I opponents.

Coach Ron Nischwitz faces a major rebuilding program for the first time since taking over the coaching reins in 1975. Gone are players who accounted for 96 of 174 runs and 13 of 17 pitching victories. They are Rick Burger (pitcher), Gary Gabringer (pitcher), Dale Branham (pitcher), Terry Green (third base), Tim Henry (pitcher), Dennis Palsgrove (infield), Barry Rowland (centerfield) and Kent Stuck (second base).

Heading the list of returning players is senior Kevin Newnam, who was a first-team all-District selection as a sophomore, and has led the Raiders in hitting the past two seasons with averages of .369 and .344. The only other returning outfielder is sophomore Bob Steinbrunner, who hit .250. Infielders back this season include seniors Doug McMichael (.174) and Dave Berry (.287) and junior Steve Haines (.150). Junior Denny Robinson (.290) is back behind the plate after earning third-team all-District honors last year.

Pitching is a big question mark with only two starters back from a staff that put together a 3.95 earned run average. Senior Bob Pollard managed only a 1-4 record, but posted a fine 2.98 earned run average. Sophomore Les McCoy (2-2, 4.45) is the other returning starter. Senior Jeff Jacobs (1-0, 1.96) was the top man in the bullpen and may see action as a starter.

Newcomers to the pitching corps include sophomore transfer Dave Lochner and freshmen Keith Robinson and Greg Addis. Senior Dave Berry may be used in spot starts or relief, depending on how quickly some of the younger players develop.

Around the infield, starters look like McMichael at second base, Haines at short, and Dave Berry at third base. First base will be split with Pollard, Lochner, and Tim Gevedon. Robinson is the only experienced catcher, making depth a problem.

Kevin Newnam will move to center field while Steinbrunner will play either right or left, with junior Tony Ferraro in the other spot. Depth is a problem in the outfield with experienced players, but there are several promising freshmen.

"Pitching will be the key for this year's team," remarks Nischwitz. "Although we don't look that strong on paper, I feel we could be surprising. We will have to concentrate on fundamentals and stay away from injuries to have a good year."

Overall, sound pitching and a good defensive infield will make the Raiders a strong contender for another NCAA tournament. Problems in any of these areas could mean the end of WSU's string of NCAA appearances. This year's team will have to be characterized by its hustle and ability to scrap for runs.

Dave Berry, senior
 5-9, 162
 infielder
 Englewood (Northmont)

Can play any infield position, but should be the starter at third base. He was one of the more consistent hitters last year with a .287 average and showed improved ability to make contact at the plate. He could see some action this year as a spot starter or relief pitcher. Showed improvement in the field during last summer in Dayton Class AA league. A transfer from Miami.

Tony Ferraro, junior
 5-11, 180
 outfielder
 Dayton (Wayne)

Has seen very limited action in his first two years, but has worked hard to make the transition in the outfield. With the graduation of two starters, he could break into the starting lineup. He has surprising power for his size.

Steve Haines, junior
 5-7, 152
 shortstop
 Jamestown (Greeneview)

Steve will serve as captain for the second straight year and will provide excellent leadership with his tremendous attitude. The fastest man on the team, Steve has worked hard to improve his hitting. He led the team with 25 stolen bases and was thrown out just four times. He can play almost any spot in

Brack Houchens, sophomore
6-1, 185
catcher-outfielder
Dayton (Wayne)

Hit .200 in limited appearances as backup to Denny Robinson behind the plate. Still needs more experience before he is ready for regular action.

Jeff Jacobs, senior
6-2, 194
pitcher
Vandalia (Butler)

Made an excellent comeback after missing the 1977 season with paralysis. In eight appearances, he fashioned a 1.96 earned run average and a 1-0 record. If he can overcome control problems of the past, he could move into the starting rotation. He worked hard during the past fall and winter to earn a starting berth.

Dave Lochner, sophomore
5-11, 164
pitcher
Beavercreek

An outstanding athlete while at Beavercreek, Dave is a transfer from Kentucky where he signed a baseball grant.

Although he does not have size, he has a more than adequate fastball and good control. He spent last summer with the Beavercreek Merchants in the Dayton Class AA league working on his curve ball and a changeup. He was one of the most sought-after pitchers in the Dayton area as a senior. He should be a starter and may play some first base as well.

Les McCoy, sophomore
6-4, 207
pitcher
Warner Robins, Ga. (Northside)

One of the pleasant surprises early last year when he won his first two games against Kent State (a shutout) and Northern Kentucky. Some arm problems affected his control and could be a factor this season. If he stays healthy, he should see action in the starting rotation. He has excellent size for a pitcher, but is not overpowering with his speed. His three-hit shutout at Kent State was one of the best-pitched games of the season.

Doug McMichael, senior
6-0, 158
second base
Bellbrook

Lack of offensive punch has been the only thing preventing Doug from being a regular. He can play any position in the infield well, but had some problems last year at shortstop. His quick release and excellent range should be better used at second base. One of the best bunters around, Doug is making a transition in his hitting which could keep him in the lineup. A good year could help overcome the loss of offensive punch in the lineup this season. His experience will be important as a steady influence in the infield.

Kevin Newnam, senior
6-0, 175
outfielder
Kettering (Fairmont West)

Kevin has put together two outstanding seasons with averages of .369 and .344, both team-leading marks. He earned first-team all-District IV honors as a sophomore, but slipped to second team last year when he was injured early in the season. He already holds several career records for Wright State . . . most RBI (94) and most home runs (12). He holds several single-season records . . . most home runs (9), RBI (49), runs (39), and slugging percentage (.637). His career batting average of .323 is just behind his cousin, Dave Newnam's record of .336. He finished last season in fine fashion by hitting .500 in the NCAA tournament. "I anticipate Kevin returning to his sophomore form in hitting," remarked coach Nischwitz. "He can hit the ball extremely well and has good speed along with excellent defensive abilities." One of his biggest thrills was hitting a home run against top-ranked South Alabama last year. One of his strongest attributes is his even-tempered attitude. Each year he has improved his strikeout ratio to the point last year of 12 fans in 110 plate appearances.

Bob Pollard, senior
6-1, 188
pitcher-first base
Dayton (Northridge)

Bob threw the first no-hitter in Wright State history last year for his first career win over Indiana Central. Hard luck has seemed to follow the big right-hander who narrowly missed several wins last year. Despite his 1-4 record, Pollard was one of the top pitchers on the staff. His hard luck continued in the NCAA tourney when he dropped a 3-2 decision to Eastern Illinois in WSU's final game. Three of his losses last year were by one run. He is the top returning pitcher on the staff and will start the season in the No. 1 spot. He has progressed rapidly this year and is in the best shape of his career. If he can stay away from elbow problems this year, he should have an excellent season. He may play some first base or designated hitter. Although he has improved his control, it still needs work.

Denny Robinson, junior
6-1, 190
catcher
Dayton (Stebbins)

Could be one of the top catchers in Division II if he continues to progress as he has in the past two years. Denny has the size coaches like in a catcher along with a take-charge attitude. He has the ability to be a .300-plus hitter and showed that with a .290 mark last year. He has a strong arm which is respected by opponents (WSU opponents stole only 39 bases last year). Denny had the best strikeout ratio among the starters last year, fanning just 7 times in 119 plate appearances. After earning third-team all-District honors last year, he should be a candidate for first-team honors this season. He worked hard in the fall to improve on his power at the plate.

Bruce Smith, freshman
6-5, 199
pitcher
Dayton (Kiser)

All-city performer in baseball while at Kiser, Bruce has excellent size for a pitcher, but needs work developing more consistent control. Posted an earned run average of 0.61 in senior year at Kiser.

Bob Steinbrunner, sophomore

6-0, 178
outfielder
Coldwater

Started the season off well last year and moved into the starting lineup in right field, but a separated shoulder put him out of action for nearly a month. Showed good potential at the plate with a .250 average and a .347 slugging percentage. He has good poise and an excellent knowledge of the game. The only question mark right now is how quickly his arm will come around to give him enough movement to be effective at the plate. He stole six bases last year without being thrown out.
